CHEAPER MARKS HIT FORMER KAISER IN POCKET BOOK

MARKS HIT NEW LOW New York—German marks made another low record Saturday, quotations being 6.775 cents.

Doorn, Holland—The slump in the German mark is beginning to affect the former German emperor, who is endeavoring to combat unfavorable financial conditions by reducing his household and other radical measures. Saturday 10 members of his staff were dismissed, including the chief gardener, who has been taken by William himself.

Gardening now has become a hobby with the former emperor, who appears to have tired of sawing and chopping wood.

General Von Gontard, the ex-Kaiser's first chamberlain, on Saturday gave out a statement saying that William's financial position would no longer allow him to give monetary support to many of the poor of Holland and Germany, who continually apply for aid.

The Prussian government has seized all the estates and the entire capital of the Hohenzollerns and still are pending, the statement added.

The Kaiser's only means of support is from Germany and as the rate of German currency is so low that a hundred marks is little more than two dollars, it is estimated that money received is barely sufficient to pay the Kaiser and the crown prince.

Blaine Asks Irish Relief Contributions

MADISON—Appeal is made to the people of Wisconsin by Governor John J. Blaine, in a proclamation Saturday, asking that they contribute to the relief of the Irish people.

"This state has always responded in rendering assistance in the hour of need to suffering humanity every where," Governor Blaine says.

"I know that on this occasion the suffering and helpless people of Ireland will not find Wisconsin ungenerous."

"I am glad to add to the president's appeal and the appeal of other governors on behalf of those suffering and distressed people. I suggest that individuals and local committees will find representatives of the American committee who are responsible at the state headquarters, Milwaukee."

Wisconsin's quota for this relief is $12,000. I know many calls have been made on the generosity of the people of our state, and I trust that the people will respond as generously in contributions for the relief of want and suffering, especially of women and children in Ireland, and render such assistance as the means and generosity of our people shall determine.

It is planned to raise $10,000,000 for relief of the Irish people who are suffering from results of the warfare that has been waged in the country.

Co-Op Shortage Is Revealed in New Testimony

CHICAGO—Harrison M. Parker, head of the Cooperative Society of America, disclosed a shortage of $117,500 in the affairs of the society in testimony he gave Saturday before Federal Judge O'Neill.

Parker said a check of books, completed Friday morning, revealed the shortage and that he had been evading the shortage for some time.

Saturday's announcement, he said, was the first he had made, even keeping the word from his attorneys.

PRESIDENT CALLS CONFERENCE FOR RAIL SETTLEMENT

PUBLIC AND INTERSTATE COMMERCE BODY ARE SUMMONED.

BASIS IS SOUGHT

Harding Statement Sees Hope in Emergency Meeting in Capital.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington—The president's call for a public on the railroad labor board were summoned to the White House Saturday by President Harding, to meet with the Interstate Commerce Commission to consider only the threatened action wide strike, but the whole question of a readjustment of railroad rates and wages.

The three wage board members, Chairman Nathan, William H. Hargraves, and Edgar Foster, came to Washington at the president's request and went with him to the office of the commission. The president remained 15 minutes and then returned to the White House, where a statement was issued declaring his move was part of a general effort at readjustment of the railroad situation.

"The purpose of the meeting," the White House said, "was a broad consideration of the possibility of an early adjustment of railroad rates and wages, and the possibility that it would contribute to the industrial revival."

No specific mention of the threatened strike was made, although it was indicated that the president, precipitated by the virtual decision of the employees' unions, had brought Mr. Harding's plan to a head. It was assumed the strike proposal formed the principal topic of discussion.

The statement, issued at the White House, follows in part: "In asking the members of the public group to meet with the president, I am not only expressing my desire to accomplish what he hopes may be important results as early as possible."

Reorganizing the labor group and also the managing group are, in the nature of things, partisans of the respective elements which they represent, the president felt it was unnecessary to invite the two groups to be partisan in any consideration of wage questions. The labor group could be expected to advocate maintenance of the highest possible wages, while the managing group could equally be expected to insist that wages ought to be reduced. It was, therefore, the president's opinion that the most practical and effective results might be secured by calling in the public group, which is concerned equally with the interests of labor, of management, of shippers, and of the general community.

Have Big Powers. The president has been impressed that a somewhat anomalous situation surrounds the relations of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the railway labor board. The commission has large powers, through its control of rates, to determine what the revenues of the railroads should be. The railway labor board, through its authority in the matter of wage determinations, has a large power in determining the largest item of railway expenditures. The president felt that the two groups, which are so closely connected, should be brought together and reaching something like a definite understanding. These two groups never have officially met together.

MINNESOTA FROSH BADLY HURT IN RUSH

LONDON AND PARIS AGREE ON PROPOSED SILENT SETTLEMENT

PARIS.—The British and French governments are in perfect agreement on complete acceptance of the recommendations of the League of Nations for a settlement of the Upper Silesian problem, and on the procedure necessary to effect it, it was learned in authoritative quarters Saturday.

The council of ambassadors will meet as soon as possible to adopt formally the council's recommendations, and to inform the German and Polish governments to take the measures necessary to apply the decision.

MORGAN UPHOLDS RIGHT OF SEARCH ON INFORMATION

MADISON.—The right of prohibition of information on search private dwellings on warrants based on information and belief, is reaffirmed in an opinion of Attorney General Morgan at Clintonville. If a complaint is sworn to by a person who is "credibly informed and has good reason to believe" that a dwelling house is being used for the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquor, a search warrant may be issued, the opinion reads.

High Cost of City Government in These Days

It is coming high these days to run the cities of the country. The old days of cheaper government are gone, not to return soon, if ever. That means, in turn, of course, in taxes. It is the heaviest of the common welfare, therefore, that care should be taken to make the dollar of taxes do a full dollar's worth of duty, and that taxes themselves should be levied as equitably as possible.

Taxes on city realty, have been advancing sharply in recent years. This kind of taxes is easy to levy and collect. It is the heaviest of the common welfare, therefore, that care should be taken to make the dollar of taxes do a full dollar's worth of duty, and that taxes themselves should be levied as equitably as possible.

Strangely enough, Friday night also marked the closing of the Lamon county centennial celebration, the concluding act of which was the "burning of Paris," reproduced pyrotechnically.

GIRLS LEAVE HOME 'SEEKING FORTUNE'

"Don't Worry, I'll be Back Soon," Child's Message to Mother.

Milwaukee police matrons were on the look-out all day Saturday for two Janesville girls, 14 and 18, who ran away from home some time Friday night or early Saturday morning to "seek their fortunes."

Local police all day were on the search by the Janesville parents, who are hopeful that the fortune-hunters will be back home within 24 hours.

Parents of the 14-year-old girl, who had disappeared, had left the following note for her parents, urging them not to worry about her as she would be "in the best company in the world" and would be "back soon."

"I went away to seek my fortune and I'm positive that I'll succeed. Please don't worry, because I'm perfectly safe. I'm in the best company in the world or will be when we get there."

"If I should write again, answer him and tell him I went away."

"I'll be back in a little while with my fortune. Don't worry whatever you do. Don't spend any money looking for me because I won't pay. I'll be back. I went away."

Chief Charles Newman is confident that if the girls went to Milwaukee as the parents believe, they will be apprehended before nightfall and that their parents will be able to bring them to an abrupt end by their return to Janesville.

$10,000,000 Suit Lost by Chicago

CHICAGO.—Judge Fisher Saturday sustained the demurrer of the Chicago Tribune to the $10,000,000 libel suit brought by the City of Chicago. He declared the city had no cause for action and denied it the right to amend its petition.

The city brought libelous suits against the Tribune and Daily News, claiming the papers had printed false statements regarding Chicago's financial standing and thereby injured the city's credit.

'Life and Death Struggle; Going in with Eyes Closed'

WASHINGTON.—President Harding Saturday assumed active leadership in the government's efforts to settle differences between the railroads and their employees, and designated as the best available agencies to avert serious labor complications the public group of the railroad labor board and the membership of the Interstate Commerce commission.

Chicago.—Sixteen railroad unions have taken a secret strike vote and authorized their officers to order a walk-out if deemed advisable, C. J. Manion, president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, announced Saturday.

Although 12 of the 16 will act independently of the four big brotherhoods, a joint meeting has been called for 2 p. m., Saturday at which the brotherhoods will submit their plan of action to the other organizations.

One high union official announced the date for the strike had been set, but declined to reveal it. October 30 has been reported as the day.

The brotherhoods also have selected the list of 10 roads on which the strike will be effective the first day, the same union official said. It is understood strikes will be ordered on additional units of 10 roads every 48 hours, until the roads either give in or the walkout becomes nationwide.

Union leaders, who had been hopeful of averting a strike, now seem to have given up. "It will be the greatest strike in history," W. G. Lee, president of the Teamsters, was quoted as saying, when he left the union conference.

Order 16-unions involved has a total membership of about two million men.

DOCTORS AGREE ON DEATH BY POISON

Testimony Admitted Under Judge's Ruling in South-ard Trial.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Twin Falls, Ida.—Under a ruling by Judge Babcock in the case of Lydia Southard, trial for the murder by poisoning of her fourth husband, Edward F. Meyer, the state today began the taking of testimony as to the death of the man. Dr. Robert C. Dooley and William G. McHattie, former husbands of the defendant, and Edward Dooley, brother-in-law.

All six physicians called upon to reply to a hypothetical question some 3,000 words in length, setting forth practically all the evidence so far advanced by the state in the case, agreed that said poison was administered at intervals during Meyer's illness, and that the final dose, which actually caused death, was taken by him within 48 hours prior to his demise.

Analysis of specimens from the bodies in each of these four cases are declared by Mr. Stephen H. Shaw, physician of poison in lethal quantities and it will be contended by the state that the poison was secured in the same way in each case by seeking it from a poisonous insect.

According to counsel for the defense they will put on only a few witnesses, the entire defense not occupying more than a day or two.

to restrict the right to criticize its corporate acts.

Judge Fisher then quoted section 4, article 2 of the Illinois constitution of 1870, which provided that every person may freely speak, write and publish on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that liberty, and that the truth, when published with good motives and for justifiable ends, shall be sufficient defense for libel. He said that this sweeping declaration of a broad right sought to protect rights, already existing against abuses which were recognized by law as such and which were easily recognizable.

The freedom of speech and of the press was, at the very inception of our government regarded as indispensable to a free state," said Judge Fisher. "Those who attempted to check the passion for it were branded by history as barbarians and tyrants."

The court held that libel was applicable only to private individuals and not to corporations. He concluded that the city might not sue for libel "unless by some legal fiction the plaintiff is to be regarded for the purpose of this suit, as a private individual, which even the publications are defamatory and liable would lie."

Judge Fisher said that the case in which the city of Manchester, England sued in 1911, was of no value in the present case, because while the English court held that a municipal corporation may sue for libel, the reasons for the holding were not stated and the decision of a foreign tribunal in itself is not a precedent.

He held further that English municipal corporations are more in the nature of private corporations and that therefore the question whether governmental bodies can sue for libel could not have been considered in the Manchester case.

The court said that examination of the early English law only served to point out the necessity of avoiding its principles. He characterized its history as telling the story of the struggle for freedom of liberty.

"It is a succession of repressive measures with varying degrees of inhuman penalties on the one hand, and a stubborn resistance to them by the champions of liberty on the other," said Judge Fisher.

The judge said that the mere fact that no American precedent existed for the present action was not, in itself, sufficient reason for denying the right to bring suit because the law provided a remedy for every wrong unless it comes in conflict with constitutional limitations or broad questions of public policy.

CITY'S NEW PUMP 94.8 PCT. PERFECT

Board of Public Works Accepts Machine After Official Test.

Official stamp of approval has been placed on Janesville's new 8,000,000 gallon pump by the board of public works as a result of a rigid test made recently, it was announced Saturday by Supt. E. A. Griffey. This pump has now been in operation nearly four months and is giving the best of satisfaction, he said. The cost was $14,000, 1 c. b. Janesville.

In the official test, conducted by engineering experts, the pump developed an efficiency of 94.8 per cent as against the guaranteed efficiency of 88 per cent. The test was conducted for three and one-quarter hours with the pump working at full speed of 42 revolutions per minute, or a pumpage of 5,500 gallons per minute.

The examination showed the machine exceeded its guaranteed duty by more than 7,000,000 foot pounds or about 25 per cent. The guaranteed duty was 124,000,000 foot pounds per 1,000 pounds of dry steam while in the actual test it developed 131,000,000 foot pounds, using 245 horse-power.

During the three and one-quarter hours, the total water pumped was 14,564 or an average of 8,000 gallons per day. It made 8037 revolutions.

"The developed mechanical efficiency of 94.8 per cent is far above the average," Mr. Griffey said.

House. It makes little difference where issued, so it's a School Bond.

MARCHING LEGION

NEXT MEETING.
Tuesday, October 25, at Moose hall in the Myers theatre building.

THE LAST MEETING.
With a convention, a medical clinic, and several other attractions going on, the attendance at the Wednesday night meeting of the legion took a slump. Changing of the night took Tuesday to Wednesday on account of the legion's company concert on Wednesday. There was something to do with the drop in the attendance.

Practically no business was conducted on that night. However, those present were given a good time by the appearance of the Chamber of Commerce quartet for a brief concert. Community singing was greatly enjoyed by those present.

EIGHT SINGERS SIGN.
"Dave" Bebbler is not after that quartet proposition. He landed upon the fellows Wednesday night and with other scouting has procured eight fellows who are willing to join a male quartet. If this interest increases, it is possible that a club will be the outcome.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.
Commander Leigh J. Woodworth has called a meeting of the executive committee to be held at the Grand hotel next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. The subject of club rooms, the meeting was called at last week's meeting. Because of the small number present, probably will come before the executive committee. Another matter that is likely to be discussed is the putting of the legion in the American legion quarter, whereby all meetings will be conducted in an lodge and most fraternal organizations. In this scheme, the legion has this regular establishment and the flag takes a large prominence. Initiation of new members in an impressive manner would also be accomplished. Holding the meetings at the present in the Moose rooms, it would be an easy matter to carry out this idea.

CONCERT COURSE REPORT.
Owing to the fact that none of the Redpath Lyceum course committee was able to be present on account of other duties at the last meeting, no report could be given. The committee announces, however, that the opening number of $300, and that after all bills incurred have been paid there should be a balance of $100. This would include an estimate of those tickets not yet accounted for, and also a portion of the cost.

With three numbers coming to cost $85 plus local expenses, the committee urges all members to lend greater cooperation in the future.

Announcement by the public on the National quartet and the Stetofsky company has been most favorable. In an interview Miss Stetofsky stated that the National quartet members carried such a favorable report back to Chicago of the reception they received here that all Redpath companies are looking forward to the visit with keen pleasure.

NEW HOWLING BLOOD.
"Ted" Corrado is keeping the Pin Knights of the legion on the jump. Several new faces were seen upon the East side alley Thursday night. Apparently it is hoped to be able to get eight three-man teams, upon the

PARDON OF HOWE RECALLS TRIAL

Twenty-Four Years Ago Battle Was Fought Out in Court.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Elkhorn—With the pardoning of LeRoy H. Howe by Gov. Blaine interest is revived in one of the most sensational murders and trials in the history of Walworth county. The Howe family lived a short distance south of Darlen and consisted of the father, mother, two sisters and two brothers—LeRoy H. Howe, aged 19, and Charles Howe, aged 18. On the night of the murder, May 22, 1897, the two brothers had attended a meeting of the Modern Woodmen in Darlen and started for home about 10 o'clock. LeRoy claimed they were joined by a stranger. On reaching a fork in the road, LeRoy and the stranger went on to the place where he worked. The next morning the lifeless body of the brother was found beside the road, some distance from the turn. He had been shot through the head and on his clothes was pinned a piece of paper on which was written:

"I am glad this has happened. I have lived long enough. Roy can have all I got."

Following the inquest, LeRoy was charged with murder and lodged in the county jail. The trial was held in the district court at Elkhorn, Wis., presided by Judge Frank Fish. The state was represented by the district attorney, Charles Sumner, and the defense by the late J. B. Barnes, Delavan. The trial began on Feb. 23, 1897, and was concluded on March 1. Many Darlen acquaintances and friends were subpoenaed and examined in addition to the introduction of much expert testimony, and the court room was each day crowded to its capacity with spectators. The case was given to the jury at 1:45 in the morning and a verdict of first degree murder was returned at 3:25 in the evening. Judge Fish later pronounced a life sentence and on March 13 Sheriff P. A. McCallen covered the prisoner to Waupun and the prison doors closed upon LeRoy Howe, supposedly for life.

The following constituted the jury: George Pierce, P. B. Jackson, Albert Brownlee, Thomas Lee, C. S. Searle, Luther Bray, John Bluff, Louis Krosch, Frank Wintermute, James S. Brooks, and John Hock.

Several times in the past, efforts have been made to have Howe pardoned, but without avail. Some time ago, however, he was paroled, and now receives a full pardon.

Lime Means Difference of Starving or Thriving

ALFALFA AND LIME DEMONSTRATION.

Now, Jimmy, don't park your gun on the geography, but study a little on this weekly agriculture lesson. Rock county land will average as high in value as any farm land in Wisconsin without the application of lime. Here is a sound investment.

The lesson this week is on limestone, which is found in all sections of the county in the outcroppings. Soil acidity can be cured. There is but one way—use limestone. The result is maximum yields for crops, especially leucum crops.

Crushers Used Here. That is why Rock county used 5,000 tons of lime, nearly as much as the rest of the state combined, this summer, to increase the yielding power of her soils. Farmers experimented a year ago and found that it paid. Limed soils brought bigger profits.

So four crushers were purchased and distributed in the townships to pulverize the stone. Lime on soils means the difference between thriving and starving plants, such as alfalfa and clover, valuable hay crops.

Soils Are Tested. The first step in soil tests is to determine how much lime is needed. More of the testing is to be done this fall and next spring for it is too late to crop success. Soils like humans get tired-out, are subject to disease and over-work. Given a treatment of lime or other fertilizer, they come back strong with healthy vigorous growth.

The photograph was taken at one of the numerous alfalfa and lime demonstrations held in the county by County Agent R. T. Glasco and Grift Richards, Madison. It indicates the difference in the alfalfa yield on limed and unlimed soils.

Natural Crushed Lime. Soil analysis gives the nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium content and acidity of the land. Liming paper can be used for the acidity test.

In Larrabee, J. D. Dressen and Edwin Dressen, Beloit.

Important Problem. In addition to most farmers have had tests by the county agent or a township test such as made in the town of Union where school children aided in collecting the soil from every 40 acres.

Improving their soils brought higher land values to the farmers. Through the demonstrations they actually saw the results in increased yield.

There has been nothing more important to agriculture interests of Rock county than the campaign to use lime to increase and better the yields.

Heydler Against 7 Game Series

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York—President John Heydler of the National League differs with Judge Landis on the advisability of returning to a seven game world series which was the rule prior to 1919. Judge Landis said at the end of the recent series that he would recommend the change at the point of view of the major leagues next winter. "As a member of the advisory council, I don't care to take issue with the Commissioner," said Mr. Heydler. "I can't see how it can be a disadvantage to the public to have a seven game series. It is a matter of the game itself that the action was taken, it having become evident that all around strength and interest in the game were being brought out and to tell its story in a seven game series. "Instances have arisen in which one remarkable pitcher was able to single-handedly decide the issue when the series called for the best four out of seven games."

RUM SMUGGLERS ON CANADA BORDER LAUGH AT THE OFFICERS

Small Force of Men and Light Sentences on Ex-Convicts Make the Bootlegging Smuggler Big Profits at Small Risk

This is a story written by a man who spends his summer in a little cabin on the Canadian border. It is first hand information as to the habits and activities of the rum smugglers of the Canadian border. The Volstead act is here a joke because with hundreds of miles of border open to all for passage, there are so few deputies. Then too the judges apparently think bootlegging and smuggling are a part of the judicial joke so fines are small and bail is low. This story written for the New York Tribune will give a pretty good idea of what the crooks are doing on a small patch of the border. Nothing seems to be needed so much as an agreement between the United States and Canada in reference to concerted action on both sides of the international line.

AT 11 O'CLOCK Saturday night, August 20 last, a middle-aged gentleman with gray hair and a choleric countenance climbed into a Pullman sleeper on the Boston & Maine Railroad at Newport, Vermont. He was cross enough to chew ten penny nails because he had been summoned by telegram to New York City, and he had to leave his camp on Lake Memphremagog and his campaign against the black bass and salmon trout right in the middle of his vacation. In the vestibule of the darkened Pullman he saw the outline of a man's figure. The man appeared to be dressed in a white jacket, so the passenger judged that he would answer to the name of Sam.

"Turn on the lights, Sam," commanded the Newport passenger. "Lights all out, sir," replied the man in the white jacket, fumbling for the passenger's bag. He lit a match to look at the berth ticket and led the way down a coal black aisle between drawn Pullman curtains. The darkened sleeper and the prospects of climbing into an upper and undressing without a ray of light, did not improve the temper of the Memphremagog camper. "What a hell—has happened to the lights?" he blurted out. "Don't know sir," replied Sam or the man generally called Sam. "All went out 'bout an hour ago. Try to get you a candle, sir."

THE COLORED PORTER LOOKS BLACKER IN THE DARK. "Oh bunk!" spoke a man's voice from within one of the nearby curtains. "Sam here!" called Sam. "All went out 'bout an hour ago. Try to get you a candle, sir." "Well, sir," answered the voice from beyond the curtains, after months of experience, some of the brightest Pullman porters have discovered that it is more difficult to find booze and porters in the dark than in the glare of electric lights. Now there is a difference of opinion as to the efficacy of this measure of plunging a whole passenger train into complete darkness when the hooch hounds of the United States and Canada are on the loose. The revenue boys have electric torches and it makes them mad to have the lights put out, and they are apt to make their search more capricious. But on the other hand, the simplest and easiest measures are often the most effective.

"Did they bag anything to-night?" The camper was interested in catches of all kinds. "Only one runner and six bottles of booze," was the reply. "Then one of the porters got at the switchboard, and out went the lights." It was just one little act in our Great International Comedy. The voices behind the portieres ceased. "Great International Comedy is right," was my comment when the Memphremagog camper told me this tale on his return from New York a few days later. And I am in a position to know something about the subject, for I have been occupying what might be called a seat in the front row at this same Great International Comedy since the way from the northeastern corner of Maine to the southwestern corner of the State of Washington.

THE CITY MANAGER HE WRITES HIS OWN OBIT—"ACHIEVEMENT"

BY H. S. GILBERTSON

(This is the twelfth of 14 articles on the City Manager Plan, written by H. S. Gilbertson of the National Municipal League.)

"The City Manager—A New Profession" is the title of one of the several books that have come out dealing with the new municipal order. The men who are making this thing go in a professional spirit, measure their achievement by the services they have rendered the city.

When after two years, Charles H. Nagle, fellow city-manager in the bulletin of their association, significantly wrote of him under the caption: "An Obituary of Achievement."

What was it these city managers were proud to say of their colleagues? He had faced an empty treasury and unpaid accounts of nearly $36,000. City-owned utilities were in bad shape and equipment impaired. Under Mr. Nagle's administration, the wages of all city employees were raised, yet with a saving (through combination of offices) of $12,000. The city was provided with a complete new motor fire apparatus. The red-light district was wiped out and gambling stopped.

New gas and electric contracts were entered into, saving the city $80,000 yearly. The local traction company was persuaded to pay one-half the cost of two new bridges.

In this cabin the man of the house sits in Canada sipping beer while across the table sits his wife in the United States drinking tea. The international boundary line runs through the cabin and the middle of the dining room table.

"It's nothing but water from the shrine." The revenue officer felt almost ashamed of himself when he saw the bottle. But the small was that of Vin Blanc, popularly known on the border as high wine. Now high wine is real booze, double proof. If you have one quart of high wine, you can add two quarts of water to it, and even then you have booze of such potency, as explained to me by a civil engineer of Scandinavian extraction, that "three of these effects would out-train a squirrel in a clump of cedars and tamaracs, and when I get nine or ten of 'em under my belt to get out of the state of my early life, I become a roaring berserker. If I had a steel trimmed shield such as my ancestors carried and threw away before they engaged in combat, I would bite a crescent out of it."

HIGH WINE IS BOOZE OF HILARIOUS POTENCY. "High wine, my boy," he continued, "is a French-Canadian booze, 130 proof. It is the grandest stuff I ever tried, and I speak from long experience. You can buy it for $2 a quart in this side of the line—the American side—and you can make three or four quarts out of that, and then you have hooch with a real kick and literally there are a lot of headlines in a barrel of it." "Everybody along the border speaks highly of high wine. Even revenue officers resorted to its purity, and agreed that a man with an ordinary full on it, and if he did not kill himself or get killed while under its influence, he was pretty certain to emerge from its intoxicating effects with a reasonably clear head and a comparatively unimpaired appetite. I did not hear that it possessed any positive virtues, except that it is undoubtedly a handy and trustworthy liquor. If you are a busy man and cannot afford much time to courting you can get 'billy' drunk on diluted high wine in about half an hour, and when you wake up you don't sweat at your breakfast and you can go to work without any excessive groaning."

"HIGH WINE" A FAVORITE WITH SMUGGLING CREW. The lady, who had brought several gallons of this fiery stuff across the line, took her arrest, trial and conviction calmly, paid her fine and departed. They pay their attorneys well, and in advance—otherwise they don't pay at all—and they pay their fines without a murmur. There is probably more smuggling in high wines across the New England border than any other liquor. Most of this booze finds a ready market in the industrial cities of Lowell, Lawrence, Pittsfield, and Haverhill. Maine and other towns where many French-Canadians are employed. I am sorry I can only offer second-hand testimony in regard to high wine. I have seen vast quantities of it in the storeroom of the Newport customs office, and I have even smelled the stuff, but my curiosity in this colorless, almost odorless and otherwise virtuous booze was never strong enough to induce me to buy a bottle when I journeyed to the nearest Canadian border. I could spend my money on who-so-ever British ale. But while there was more of high wine than any other liquor in the Newport Federal building, the officers there were not so sure of its purity. Other liquors, such as gin, whiskey, bitters and a few flasks of cordials. In fact, there was enough booze in that room on the second floor of the Newport Federal building to stock any Broadway barroom. "And the basement is chock full," remarked the revenue officer who showed me the second floor collection. "I would like to see the basement. It's the same size as the building."

HE'S A BIG BOOZER. FELL OF CONFISCATED BOOZE. Then the revenue officer just began to tell me about the great quantities of liquor already destroyed. The spot then on hand was waiting the arrival of its former owners. When I left the building—the Newport post office—I looked back at the structure with great interest. Newport is a charming little city of about 3,000 population, with beautifully kept lawns and home-like homes of simple New England architecture. But when you consider the size of Newport and the amount of liquor stored in the post office, it is a little hard to believe that at some time in the past Newport elected a congressman who certainly brought home the bacon. The post office is a large building, and the basement is effecting more than the basement of a custom officer, and it's full of booze. Gosh!

Most of this huge quantity has been seized in big raids in which truckloads of automobiles loaded were taken. I do not propose to tell you a good share of the smuggling was done along Lake Memphremagog, which is thirty miles long from north to south and most of which lies in New England. There is no doubt some smuggling by water, but I heard of one case only. Revenue agents arrested a man who was making frequent trips in a motorboat. They found nothing aboard to interest them except an enormous gasoline tank. On examination they found the tank to be double-barreled. It had two compartments, one containing gasoline and a big one full of booze.

BUT THE REAL SMUGGLERS ARE A HARD BOILED LOT. The real smuggling—that is, the bulk of the smuggling—is not conducted along any such clever lines. The real smugglers who operate along the Vermont-Quebec border have no such elaborate equipment. They are not monkeying with accordeons or hiding a few bottles in Pullman sleepers. They work with considerable money, and on an extensive scale, and they depend on superior numbers and on constant operation for the success of their drives. They outnumber the United States revenue inspectors about twenty to one, and they know well that they know the fact that a few of their hirelings and associates will be caught occasionally. The great bulk of their contraband is brought across the border in a variety of ways. Handcarts or trucks with dependable motors. They follow the back roads, always avoiding the main highways.

The Newport revenue agents told me that they could not depend on any of the farmers in the neighborhood to furnish information. In one instance a farmer had telephoned the authorities that a cargo of liquor had passed his home. The day following he reported to the revenue officers that he had been informed that he had better keep his mouth shut in the future unless he wanted his residence and big red barn to catch fire some night. That farmer has never seen a revenue officer since. He became smugger-blind on the spot.

SMUGGLING IN MERCHANDISE AN ABANDONED GAME. The booze adventures along the Vermont-Quebec border have an other great advantage besides superior numbers and constant operation. They are experienced, or they can command the services of experienced lawbreakers. Smuggling between the United States and Canada is no new venture. It has been going on ever since there was a United States-Canadian boundary line. Formerly the trade was in merchandise. Sugar, horses and other various products were surreptitiously shipped into Canada, while cutlery, leather goods, jewelry and other manufactured products were shipped into this country. Lately, however, the trade has been shifted to the smuggling of liquor. The products were surreptitiously shipped into Canada, while cutlery, leather goods, jewelry and other manufactured products were shipped into this country. Lately, however, the trade has been shifted to the smuggling of liquor.

REVENUE MEN EXPLAIN WHY THEY FAIL. I asked several revenue officers along the border towns how they ever expected to enforce prohibition. They replied I received more substantial the same. "We'll never be able to stop rum-running unless some radical changes are put through." One revenue officer put it this way: "We are short of men. We have asked for reinforcements and have turned down. To make any effective resistance against the rum runners under present conditions, we need at least twenty more deputies to patrol the back roads. But even with our limited force we could stop smuggling altogether if the courts would send a few of the offenders to Leavenworth instead of imposing the maximum fines of $500 and costs. The

An Afternoon in Court

Two vagrants stood before Judge H. L. Macneil in municipal court Thursday. One was a vagrant of the 1911 type, jobless and hungry—the other one of the kind common years ago, so the court thought. Both were picked up loafing around the depot and each was sentenced to the county jail only the court later suspended the sentence on the "1921" vagrant, who gave his name as Charles Kelly. "How old are you, Kelly?" asked the court. "Twenty-three." "Where were you born?" "Near a little town in Iowa." Through continued questioning, the court dragged from the youth the story of how he landed in Janesville, penniless, jobless and hungry. "Well, sir," he went on, "I was working in a rendering works out there and finally saved up $1,000. I bought the place. Things went along pretty good until I was called to Des Moines one day and informed that state laws had been passed which would require me to put in new gears were about $1,000. Well, I went back. I had one of the finest rendering plants in that part of the country, but I didn't have the money to make these changes. "So I had to turn the plant back to the man I had bought it from, just because I didn't have the money to make the changes. I had paid $4,000, so down it all and I didn't have the money to make these changes. "Since leaving the rendering works connecting the island of Fehmarn (in the Baltic Sea) with the German mainland, enabling trains from Hamburg to run to the extreme end of the island; whence a ferry would transport them bodily to the new Danish port of Rødby on Lolland. P.M. that point a new direct railway would connect with Copenhagen. It is claimed that the journey from London or Paris to Stockholm would thus be shortened by nine hours. The cost of the project is variously estimated at between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000.

BAKERY PUSS IS OUSTED IN BOSTON. Boston.—The cat in the bakery must go. This is one of the orders just promulgated by the city health department, under authority of an act passed by the last legislature. "Some bakers thought that cats were necessary in order to keep rats and mice away," said Dr. P. H. Muldowney, deputy health commissioner in charge of the food inspection division. "The same object can be attained, however, by proper physical construction of the baking plant, so we have abolished cats and all other animals."

Another Frost Warning

The Garage Thermometer Is A Useful Danger Signal

WHEN FROSTY NIGHTS begin to become the rule rather than the exception, the radiator even of the car that is kept in a weather-tight garage, is in some danger of freezing and the same thing applies to the car that is housed in quarters, where heating apparatus is provided, during the period before heat is maintained regularly. In every private garage an ordinary thermometer—a reliable one—should be provided, preferably suspended over the hood of the car and when one finds, upon entering in the morning, that a temperature in the forties is indicated, the freezing danger is present. Ordinary safeguards, such as heavily covering the radiator front and hood with, of course, have been taken before as cold weather as this has arrived, but more stringent precautions will now be necessary. If the garage has artificial heat, it may be well to start it going, but if it has not, any one of three things can be done: The cooling system of the car can be emptied each night and filled with warm water in the morning (intensely hot water should not be used because of the possibility of causing the jacket walls to crack; moderately warm water being sufficient). Some form of underhood electric heater can be operated through the night, either a portable heating element laid under the closed and well covered hood, supplied through a flexible cord from the garage lighting circuit or one of the special heating elements, that act upon the circulating water directly. A 100 watt ordinary carbon lamp within a wire guard, serves perfectly well to keep the underhood space generally warmed, and special water heating elements, either permanently attached or detachable, are on the market. Better than either of the above expedients, however, is the replacement of the water by non-freezing mixture, as this is a positive measure of protection.

CLATTERS ON ROUGH ROADS

W. J. D. writes: There is a knock or clatter, apparently in the rear end of my car, when it is running over pavements or rough roads, but this is not heard when the car is pulling on a hill or going at 25 or 30 m. p. h. It sounds as if it were in the wheels. What is your opinion?

Answer: We can give you nothing very definite. You realize, of course, that it is very difficult to locate these noises, even by listening to them from the car. The fact that it occurs when you are driving over rough roads, makes you wonder if it may not be a running gear rattle from loose springs or bolts or the like. If there were much wrong with the drive, you would be likely to hear from it in hill climbing or when at speed. You might jack up the rear end, try the wheels for end play and for looseness on the shafts, see if there is excessive lost motion and correct any defects thus found. Sometimes lost motion in the universal joints, causes a clattering, especially on rough going.

Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

OPERATIVE COSTS

J. F. F. writes: Please give me your opinion as to the correctness of the statement made by a friend of mine that it is impossible to operate and keep in condition any six cylinder car at an expense of less than $75 per month, the car being operated 75 per cent. of the time.

Answer: We do not know exactly what is meant by the car being operated 75 per cent. of the time, but assuming an annual mileage of 10,000, we believe that pretty close figuring would be required to keep the annual expense below $75 per month or $900 per year. However, it would doubtless be possible to reduce the cost to $50 per month or $600 per year (not including depreciation or interest), which would be an expense of 6 cents per mile, a figure that can be attained if there are no serious repairs required and the owner does practically all the work on his car and incurs no unusual expenses. The 6 cents per mile estimate includes gasoline, oil, tires, minor supplies, insurance, registration, taxes and all miscellaneous items, but includes practically no work, hard done on the car. An intelligent owner, who is willing to do his own work and economize can do considerably better than your friend says, but his estimate is a fair one under normal conditions.

THE NEW CADILLAC

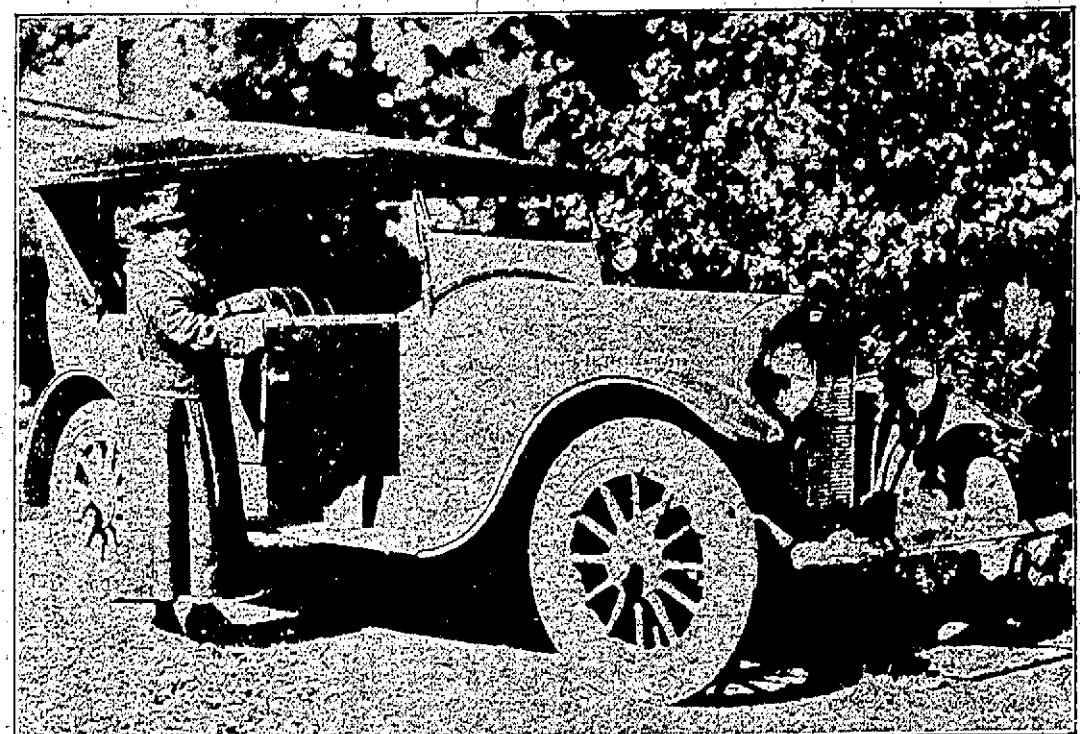

Type 61.

The new Type 61 Cadillac Sedan suggests nothing so much as the quick litheness of a living thing in its instant acceleration and eager response to every call for power.

A few marked improvements in design, such as lowering the center of gravity—with no lessening of road clearance—have wrought wonders in emphasizing the buoyant floating qualities for which the Cadillac has always been celebrated.

A delightful experience is in store for Cadillac owners and non-owners alike.

When is a Battery Old?

Some men are young at eighty—others are old at forty.

It's about the same way with batteries.

Their usefulness depends on the care they have had, the amount of work they have had to do, how they have been used, and most important of all—on the original quality of the battery.

There are many good reasons back of the decisions of the manufacturers of 173 makes of cars and trucks to use Willard Threaded Rubber Batteries.

Come in and we'll tell you more about them.
